Remarks: I received some clarification on the attached memorandum from SA/ADDO, as follows:

The subject of what the Agency is willing to do for personnel captured by terrorists has come up frequently in training sessions for junior officers and other similar forums. Instructors, etc., have been forced to reply that official U.S. Government policy is vague in certain important respects. Secretary Kissinger has stated at times that we will not negotiate with terrorists, but at the same time has indicated acceptance of the concept that you at least have to establish communications with terrorists in hostage situations. Additionally, the question of whether their employers can bargain on behalf of held as hostages has never been addressed.
